

Druml and Nermoen changed places!

Tomaz Druml from Austria took revenge, and stepped up to the top of the victory podium on the Sundays cross country race at Høydalsmo ski stadium. Jonas Nermoen stepped down to the third place.

Because of the good run Tomaz made yesterday, and the good position he got after the jumping also yesterday, he had to accept to be the favorite of today's run.

He had a good feeling, conditions were rough but his skies were good. He knew it would be a tactical race and he had to get rid of some guys during the run. The first place today is the first this season for Tomaz. He has to work with his jumping shape, and he was very pleased with the jumping result before this race. In the new race at Rowaniemi next weekend he has to expect to be favorite.

For next season Tomaz hope being among the top ten, but it's many good competitors in Austria, so its hard to get in.

Lukas Runggaldier caught the second plase at the race. He felt the jumping was good, but he got some bad points from the judges. In the race he never stood a chance in beating Tomaz because he was too strong and Lukas's legs were getting stiff. The guy who is first in the last curve is the one who is winning, says Lukas.

Lukas has never been to Høydalsmo before, but says he has had a good time here. Lukas is travelling to Vikersund this weekend to try to get his first world cup points. He sure would have been in Rowaniemi, but the team don't have enough money to pay for the trip, so he will stay and wait for his team in Vikersund instead. He hopes the sun is shining in Vikersund.

Jonas Nermoen caught the third place in this days race. He had a better distance, but the competition were rough and he knew he had to have good speed. The short distance between the two races made him a bit tired, but all the way he was the 7.th best in the lap today.
